Born in Sopchoppy, Florida as the 11th of 12 children, Rhonda Quigg Harvey has built a legacy of service, leadership, and entrepreneurship in Wakulla County. A valedictorian and homecoming queen of Wakulla High School's first graduating class, she earned degrees from Tallahassee State College and FAMU School of Pharmacy. For over 30 years, Harvey owned and operated Panacea and Wakulla Pharmacies, earning widespread respect for her professionalism and compassion—often delivering lifesaving medications outside of business hours. Her dedication to healthcare and community well-being has made her a beloved figure throughout the region.

Beyond pharmacy, she has played a vital role in Wakulla County's economic development. She is a co-owner of Harvey Lentz Realty and the Dairy Queen in Crawfordville, which provides over 40 jobs and contributes significantly to the local economy. As a managing partner in multiple LLCs and an active member of organizations like the Chamber of Commerce, United Way, and FSU Seminole Boosters, her civic engagement spans more than four decades. Honored as the 2022 Established Business Woman of the Year by the Wakulla Chamber of Commerce, she and her husband, David, were also recognized with a named classroom at the TSC Wakulla Environmental Institute. Her enduring impact reflects a deep commitment to service, education, and community growth.
